Fatal Fire in a Crowded New York Tenement House.

SEVEN HUMAN LIVES SACRIFICED.

The Fire Came While Seven Families Were Asleep, and Those Who Escaped Were Awakened by the Shouts of People on the Street.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Seven people were mothered to death by smoke in a tenement house fire at No. 216 West Thirty-cond street early in the morning. The e came suddenly and cut off all escape the stairways. In the excitement everydy looked only to his or her own safety, d rushed down the fire escape.

The following perished in the building: orge Friedman, aged 4 years; Levy iedman, 3; Annie Appleblatt, 22; Lena tchell, 24; Mrs. Margaret Killian, 70; cob Killian, her son, 40; George Lovy, s. Killian's grandson, 22.

Lena Friedman, mother of the dead ldren, jumped from the third story ndow. She was badly crushed and angled, and will die.

The house is a five story brick tenement, e ground floor being occupied by a groy and the upper stories being arranged th front and rear apartments. There re seven families in the house. The ly means of exit for the people is by ans of a stairway, narrow and dark, hich runs directly up through the centre the building.

The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock by sers by. When a policeman came up door of the tenement was open, and on inside the fire glowed like a torch. He ld see that the stairway was being rapy burned away. Still there was not a n of life from the people sleeping in the ise.

To enter the house meant death. The y hope for those within was in arous- them by shouts, in which the police n was aided by those who had been atcted by the fire.

Suddenly to the noise of the flames as y burned away the stairway there was ed an awful cry. One of the tenants in upper part of the house had been used and stood at the window on the h floor. It was Mrs. Eberwein, the janss, who lived on that floor. In a min there was not a window in the front of house that did not contain the wild frightened face of some man, woman child, each of them appealing for aid.

In the absence of the firemen, who had yet arrived, the spectators were powerto assist those in the building further n to remind them of the fire escapes. these first one woman and then others he tenants to the number of twenty hed the ground, descending in the st of flame and smoke, before the ladtrucks arrived.

he Friedman children and two boarders, Annie Appleblatt and Lena Mitchell, t in an inner apartment on the third r. The fire had not reached them, but smoke had filled the rooms and at least of the occupants had suffocated with- having awakened to their peril. George Levy Friedman and Lena Mitchell still in bed when found, and the eful expression of their faces showed had no knowledge of the death that e to them so suddenly. Annie Appleit was lying dead on the floor. Her face black. She had her dress and shoes Evidently she had been aroused and stopped to don her clothing, and had before she finished her task.

n the fourth floor were found the rening victims of the fire. Mrs. Killian her son were dead in bed, while the dson was on the floor, half way to the window.

he fire was extinguished soon after the was turned on, and though the work scue was prosecuted with zeal from instant the firemen arrived on the e they were too late. The property age will not exceed $2,000.

Tried to Kill the Family.

PEER, Mich., Oct. 31.—At 3 o'clock he morning an unknown man entered esidence of Fred Skinner, at Columille, and attempted to murder the ents. The murderer used a blackh's hammer. Mrs. Skinner was mutilalmost beyond recognition, and will Mrs. Lucetta Standley, Mrs. Skin- mother, was struck twice on the , and is perhaps fatally injured. Mr. ner warded off the attack on himself a pillow, and the assailant made his pe. The sheriff is in pursuit.

Death of Dr. Peterson.

BURY PARK, Oct. 31.—Dr. Robert E. rson, who had been here during the mer, died yesterday from apoplexy. was 82 years old. Dr. Peterson was at ime associated with the late George Childs in the publishing business under firm name of Peterson, Childs & Co. tudied medicine when about 30 years e, and graduated with high honors, did not practice. RUSSIA'S DYING EMPEROR.

Scenes of Sorrow as the Official Bulletins Are Distributed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 31.—A bulletin from Livadia says that during yesterday the spitting of blood by the czar continued. The patient was sometimes seized with fits of shivering. His temperature was 100 degrees Fahrenheit, and his pulse ninety. The pulsations were weak. Respiration is difficult. His majesty can take little nourishment, and is becoming very weak. The œdema has considerably increased.

The emperor is conscious and able to converse with the doctors and his relatives. The czarina never leaves the sick room. His majesty suffers heroically, and makes no complaint. He sits in an arm chair in the best position to relieve the intense pain in his side. On Monday he tried to attend to state papers and letters, but was obliged to stop by violent fits of coughing which lasted some hours. The coughing was accompanied by intense pain, and then blood appeared in the phlegm. When the doctors went to his room at the usual time last night his majesty declined to receive them until 9 o'clock.

The town wears a mournful aspect. Touching scenes are witnessed in the streets. The people uncover and cross themselves before the places where the bulletins are posted, and many of them shed tears. Copies of the bulletins are distributed by news agents, and when these agents appear on the streets the bulletins are snatched from their hands by the anxious people.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY.

Jewelry Clerk Locked in a Vault and the Store Looted.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—A daring robbery was committed in the heart of the business center of the city in broad daylight. The amount of plunder secured is not exactly known, but was given as $6,000 in watches and other jewelry. Soon after 2 o'clock G. W. Brethauer, the senior member of the firm of Brethauer & Co., wholesale jewelers at Washington street, left the office, leaving his son in charge.

Young Brethauer was bending over a show case full of watches in the rear of the room when two men entered the door. One of them carried a revolver in his hand and the other one was armed with a piece of lead pipe about two feet long. The jeweler was commanded to throw up his hands, which he was not slow in doing. The two men then ordered him into the vault, the door of which stood open. Brethauer demurred, and one of the men caught him by the throat, threw him into the vault and pushed the door shut. The thieves then proceeded to ransack the show cases and scoop the watches into a sack. The door of the safe stood open and the bandits emptied the cash box, obtaining a considerable sum of money.

All this occupied only a few moments, and the men soon made their escape. The senior Brethauer returned about 3:30 and soon heard a sound of pounding in the vault. It was hastily opened and the man taken out nearly exhausted. So far no trace of the thieves has been obtained.

His Stewardship Questioned.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 31.—A bill in equity was filed in the United States circuit court yesterday by Mrs. Annie Hinds, of Richmond, Va., against the Rev. Thomas Chapman, of Pittsburg. The plaintiff states that she is the widow of William Hinds, who died in January, 1883, leaving a widow and six children. The personal estate of the deceased amounted to $119,577.59. It is charged that Chapman has received from this principal more than $40,000, and has made more than $5,000 on one transaction alone, yet he tenders to the plaintiff as the result of his stewardship 300 shares of Westinghouse stock and two worthless mortgages. Chapman is charged with collecting large sums and making investments for Mrs. Hinds for which he has never rendered any account.

A Murderous French Society.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 31.—The autopsy in the case of Marie Contassiot, the French woman who was found apparently strangled to death early Sunday morning, leaves her death still a mystery. It is said there is a secret society on Market street known as "The Macquereaux," composed of Frenchmen, who bring women from France, they agreeing to pay a percentage to the society. It is also said the members have banded themselves under the high sounding name of "Les Chevaliers d'Amour." The police believe this organization is responsible for the death of both Lena Tapper and Marie Contassoit.

Charges Against Brutal Policemen.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Superintendent Byrnes has been directed by the police commissioners to make charges against all those policemen connected with the assault on the striking cloakmakers at Rutger's square on Oct. 18. The commissioners issued this order in face of Inspector Williams' report to the effect that he had investigated the affair and found that the police had committed no assaults. At the time the alleged assaults were committed the strikers were forming a parade for which they had secured a permit.

"There is Danger In Delay."

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone. —W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Ely's Cream Balm has completely cured me of catarrh when everything else failed. Many acquaintances have used it with excellent results. —Alfred W. Stevens, Caldwell, Ohio. Price of Cream Balm is 50 cents.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

THE LEXOW INVESTIGATION.

Commissioner Sheehan Again Questioned at Length by Mr. Goff.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Commissioner Sheehan was on the stand again yesterday before the Lexow committee, and as usual a good deal of hot talk passed between the witness and Senator Goff. Half an hour before the adjournment Mr. Sheehan was excused for the present and another witness took his place.

Senator Goff drew the commissioner out in reference to his idea of the duties of the police board. First and foremost, the witness claimed, the duty of the board was to see that the $7,500,000 annual appropriation was properly expended. The board must also see that the officers on the force did their duty. Mr. Goff endeavored to make a telling point by getting the witness to admit that the board considered the proper enforcement of the rules among the officers as secondary to the expenditure of the $5,000,000 appropriation. The commissioner, however, would not admit the truth of such an inference.

In the afternoon Mr. Goff spent considerable time questioning the witness about the New York signal service. The commissioner admitted that the service was greatly inferior to that of Chicago, Boston and several other large cities; but he could not explain why this was the case. At the conclusion of Mr. Sheehan's testimony Mr. Goff told the witness to bring his private and public bank books today. This the witness positively refused to do.

Herman Spitz, an ignorant Austrian, did not want to testify. It was said he had been intimidated. Mr. Moss at last dragged from him a story to the effect that he had been stabbed twice because he had incurred the hostility of Israel Weinstock. A man known as "Dutchy" had tried to prevent the witness from prosecuting Weinstock. "Dutchy," it appeared, was an agent of "Silver Dollar" Smith. The story had been only partly developed when the investigation was adjourned.

Johnson Still Breaking Records.

BUFFALO, Oct. 31.—Yesterday afternoon it is claimed John S. Johnson brought the bicycle record for the mile unpaced down under two minutes. He made the mile in 1.57 4-5. This ploughs a regular furrow in the 2.07 1-5, which Sanger set for the mark, and which Johnson has beaten by nearly ten seconds. Johnson rode in an opposite direction to the one he took when he is said to have made a paced mile in 1.35 2-5. Johnson is the first man in the world to beat the trotting, pacing and running horse records, the first man in the world to do the mile with flying start and with standing start in less than two minutes, and now he is the only man who has done the mile unpaced in less than two minutes.

Five Thieves Killed in a Wreck.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Oct. 31.—In a wreck of empty coal cars on the Beech Creek railroad, near Peale Station, five men were instantly killed. They are all unknown. At first it was supposed that the victims of the wreck were tramps. An investigation of their effects, however, disclosed that they were all armed with revolvers, and in a satchel was found a complete set of burglars' tools. One of the men killed is said to be named Huff, of this city. If it is the same he served a term in the penitentiary for horse stealing. All three of the men killed were here Monday afternoon.

Abbott Defeats Gehring.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31.—Stanton Abbott, of England, and Charles Gehring, ex-amateur champion of the United States, fought at the Academy of Music last night. The fight was announced by Referee H. Lee Clarke to be a six round go. The first two rounds looked as though honors would be even at the end of the sixth round, but in the third round Abbott caught his opponent on the point of the jaw, and Gehring went down and out. Gehring won the amateur championship in New York city at Madison Square Garden last March, whipping four men in two nights.

A Juvenile Desperado.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Oct. 31.—Mart'n Palaga, aged 13, who lives in Plainfield township, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Powers for shooting and probably fatally wounding Annie Kamatoswky, the 6-year-old daughter of a farmer living near by. The act was deliberate and intentional. Young Palaga had been playing with the girl and her brother Stanley, aged 12 years. He became enraged, secured a shotgun and deliberately fired at the girl. He also attempted to shoot Stanley.

Another Victim of Dynamitards.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 31.—Kasha Goterich, another of the victims of the dynamite explosion on the Wilkesbarre mountain, died at the hospital yesterday. He was 19 years old. This makes four now dead, and the man whose back is broken will make five in a short time. The county commissioners have increased the reward offered for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of the crime to $2,000. The railroad contractors offer in addition a reward of $500.

POLITICS IN NEW YORK.

The Fight Against Senator Hill in the Empire State.

BOTH SIDES ARE UNDISMAYED.

The Supporters of the Regular Democratic Candidate, However, Are Angry Because the National Administration Withholds an Indorsement—Crisp to Speak for Hill.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The declaration of William R. Grace that the state Democracy organization is supporting David B. Hill, and is not responsible for any Wheeler pasters, is received with incredulity by many who still insist that secretly, if not openly, that faction is in favor of Hill's defeat, and of rolling up as large a vote as possible for Wheeler. The adherents of the latter candidate are confident that the Democratic reform ticket will make a good showing on election day. Many anti-Hill Democrats will, it is generally believed, vote straight for Morton, taking the ground, as one of them remarked today, that a vote for Wheeler will be only half a vote against Hill, and the Wheeler votes are intended to aid Morton, anyway.

The Hill men are as confident as ever, referring with special satisfaction to the personal fight their candidate is making and to the enthusiasm with which he is being received by his supporters. Most of them, however, do not seek to conceal their disappointment or anger that his candidacy has not received open and active encouragement from the national administration.

The Republicans abate none of their claims, and insist that, with the general Republican tendency this year and the Democratic defection from Hill, the latter will be snowed under.

There has been but little betting so far in the campaign, but the representatives of wagers at the Stock Exchange and elsewhere show odds on Morton not unfrequently of two to one. Smaller odds are given on Strong against Grant, the perfection of the Tammany organization throughout the city making the supporters of the committee of seventy rather cautious about risking their money, however much they anticipate a great anti-Tammany uprising.

The Hill Democrats are pleased by the announcement that Speaker Crisp, of the house of representatives, had canceled engagements in order to speak in this city or Brooklyn. They are much pleased by a letter for Hill from C. F. Black, chairman of the National League of Democratic Clubs.

The fact that Colonel Strong made brief speeches at a number of meetings last night in the down town east side district is regarded with much favor by the practical politicians, who are allied with the committee of seventy, as they think it will have a good effect on a class of voters who always wish to see their candidate and know something of his personality.

Killed by a Lone Highwayman.

NEVADA CITY, Cal., Oct. 31.—Arthur Meyer, driver of the stage running between this place and North Bloomfield, was shot and instantly killed by a highwayman. At Rock Creek, three miles north of here, the stage was stopped by a lone highwayman, who commanded Meyer to get down off the box. Meyer refused, and the bandit fired twice at him with a revolver. The second shot passed through the driver's body. C. H. Boyce, of Sierra county, who was the only passenger, jumped from the coach and ran into the forest. After the robber had gone Boyce brought the dead stage driver to town. So far as known the robber secured no booty.

No Pardon for Dempsey Yet.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 31.—The board of pardons recommend pardons for W. H. Bradley, of Philadelphia, and Joseph Green, of Lehigh. The case of Hugh F. Dempsey, the Pittsburg labor leader, serving seven years in the Western penitentiary for being the leader of an alleged conspiracy to poison non-union workmen at Homestead after the strike, was held under advisement. A respite of four months was recommended in the case of George Dukovic, the Pittsburg murderer, who is alleged to be insane.

Wife Murder and Suicide.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Frederick Mertz, 45 years old, a German baker, shot and killed his wife, Maria, 32 years old, at their home on Forty-second street last night, and then put a bullet into his own brain. Mertz died instantly, but the woman survived a few minutes. It is supposed the man committed the crime in a fit of drunken frenzy and jealousy.

DEATH OF EX-PREMIER MERCIER.

Was for Years an Ardent Advocate of Canadian Independence.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Honore Mercier, ex-premier of Quebec, died here yesterday, aged 54. The end had been expected any time during the preceding twenty-four hours, and hope of recovery had been given up weeks ago. In fact, from the moment that he first fell seriously ill on Aug. 14 last it had been felt that he lay on his deathbed. Mr. Mercier had been suffering from a complication of diseases for some years past, diabetes predominating.

Mr. Mercier entered political life through journalism in 1862, and a year later was admitted to the bar. He joined the new

EX-PREMIER MERCIER.

National party in 1871, and after serving in parliament several terms gained his first cabinet position in 1879—that of solicitor general in the provincial government. In 1887 he became prime minister of the province.

This place he retained until Dec. 16, 1891, when he and his colleagues in the ministry were ignominiously dismissed from office by Lieutenant Governor Angers. This action was based on a report made by Judges Jette, Baby and Davidson, who as a royal commission had been investigating charges that Mercier and his government had received $100,000 from Contractor Armstrong for the sale of the Bay des Chaleurs railway. In October, 1892, M. Mercier was placed on trial for malfeasance at Quebec, but the case ended in a verdict of not guilty.

Since then M. Mercier has been very much in evidence, chiefly as a denouncer of "British tyranny" and an avowed advocate of Canadian independence.

SPAIN'S CABINET RESIGNS.

The Crisis Partly Precipitated by Colonial Differences.

MADRID, Oct. 31.—As a result of the cabinet council held yesterday the ministers have tendered their resignations. Prime Minister Sagasta has gone to inform the queen regent of the action of the cabinet. It is believed that the crisis will be found to be difficult of solution.

Though the causes that have led to the resignation of the Spanish ministry cannot at present be positively stated, it is pretty safe to assume that the crisis was partly precipitated by colonial questions. The government recently arranged with the Bank of Spain for an advance of 10,000,000 pesetas in Spanish silver dollars to replace the Mexican dollars in the Porto Rico company. This project was strenuously opposed by Senor Maura, the colonial minister, but his colleagues persisted in carrying out the arrangement, and Senor Maura resigned. This, however, was but one of the serious differences in the cabinet on the government's colonial policy.

The Japanese Victories.

TIENTSIN, Oct. 31.—The greater part of the Chinese forces was destroyed before Chu-Leang-Cheng was evacuated. General Hung's official report praises the valor of the troops, but confesses that they were outmatched by the enemy's weapons and training. The Chinese government is assuming the complete initiative in national affairs, which have hitherto been directed by Li Hung Chang. Colonel Von Hannekin, the German officer, has been summoned to Pekin by imperial edict, in order to consult with the government in regard to the military situation. The Japanese force which has been pursuing the Chinese north of the Yalu river captured at Antung twenty guns, many rifles and quantities of ammunition and provisions.

Held Up on the Station Platform.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 31.—William McKenzie, a traveler from Missouri to Texas, was held up and robbed at West Fork, on the Frisco road, late at night. Just as the train rolled into the station McKenzie stepped out of one of the rear cars onto the platform. He was immediately confronted by a stranger, who covered him with a six shooter and went through his pockets, relieving him of $20 in money. As soon as the train moved on the robber left and McKenzie stepped back on the car. There were several deputy marshals on board, but McKenzie feared to make an outcry.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at McMonagle and Rogers' Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

SUING ROCKEFELLER.

Alfred Merritt Asks a Million and a Quarter.

ALLEGED FALSE REPRESENTATION.

The Standard Oil Magnate and His Private Secretary, Mr. Merritt Declares, Induced Him to Invest in Stocks Which They Failed to Bolster Up, as Agreed.

DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 31.—Alfred Merritt has brought suit against John D. Rockefeller and F. T. Gates, his private secretary, for $1,226,400, in which amount he claims he was damaged by what he al eges to be their fraudulent representations in the forming of the Lake Superior Consolidated iron mines. Plaintiff claims that at various times in August, 1893, in New York city, before he had transferred his interests in various iron mines and the Mesaba railroad, the defendants represented to him that the Penokee and Gogebic Consolidated mines, which with others controlled by Rockefeller was to be taken into the Lake Superior Consolidated mines, was a solvent and prosperous company; also the Spanish-American and the Aurora; that their stocks were well worth what Rockefeller was to receive; that Rockefeller and Wetmore promised to lend to Merritt on his Consolidated stock money at forty cents on the dollar, at par value.

All of these representations and promises, plaintiff claims, were fraudulent. Defendants at the time knew that each of the companies controlled by Rockefeller owed large amounts our of their funded debt, and that the Penokee company was at the time insolvent, that instead of taking the value of the Lake Superior Consolidated company's consolidated stock, worth fifty cents on the dollar, as Rockefeller promised it would, and as he would publish it to the world, the stock of these other mines caused its value to decrease to $10 per share of $100.

When Merritt asked Rockefeller to keep his promise and to loan him money at the rate of forty cents on the dollar, and later at twenty-five cents, Rockefeller refused, and would give only ten cents on the dollar.

In organizing the Lake Superior Consolidated mines the defendant, it is claimed, got the new company to take the following interests owned by him: Twenty-eight thousand three hundred and fifty shares of the Aurora Iron Mining company stock, 865 shares Penokee and Gogebec Consolidated mines, 21,626 shares Spanish-American mine, in Cuba, 300 collateral trust notes of $1,000 each of the Spanish-American company, for which the Lake Superior company turned over first mortgage bonds exceeding $1,000,000. For a 51 per cent. interest in the Adams and Lone Jack mines Rockefeller got Consolidated first mortgage bonds worth over $1,700,000. Rockefeller represented the interests which he transferred to be worth $2,130,351.

The agreement showed that Rockefeller also controls stocks and securities to the value of $1,361,919 of companies which he promised to try to get into the Consolidation. Rockefeller claimed they cost him $2,719,154, and he was to get Consolidation bonds worth $3,019,860 for them at ninety cents.

There will, it is said, be several more suits before the matter is ended.

The capital of the Consolidation was at first fixed at $3,000,000, but later increased to $30,000,000.

Gould Sued for Breach of Contract.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 31.—The sheriff of Miller county served a warrant on George Gould, president of the Missouri Pacific, for appearance in the circuit court of Miller county, to plead to two separate suits instituted by the minority bondholders of the Springfield, Warsaw and Sedalia Railroad company, aggregating about $250,000. Mr. Gould was enjoying a hunting expedition when the sheriff served the papers. The railroad in question is now in the hands of a receiver. It is alleged that Mr. Gould is guilty of a breach of contract.

A MONSTROUS MEASURE.

THE REPUBLICAN APPORTIONMENT SCHEME

SHOULD BE VOTED DOWN.

One of the Greatest Gerrymanders Made by the Partisan Constitutional Convention All Fair-Minded Men Denounce It.

With the political considerations involved in the proposed constitutional amendment affecting the apportionment of representation in the Legislature, it is not the province of this journal to deal. But the proposal has a business side which may be considered outside of partisan lines, and which may influence the verdict of this amendment by voters of this city without distinction of party. Should the amendment be adopted, its practical effect would be to prevent New York city and county, whatever might be its population, from ever returning more than one-third of the membership of the State Senate, and New York and Kings, however populous, from ever electing more than one-half of the members of that body. The argument for this would certainly be stronger if either or both of these cities in their present condition of what may be called representative subjection to the rest of the State were treated with a fair show of justice. So far as New York, at least, is concerned, that is emphatically not the case. It has to submit to a decidedly aggravated imposition of taxation without representation, and if the proposed new apportionment goes through the chance of compelling redress will be indefinitely postponed.

According to the estimate of the Board of Health, the present population of this city is 1,957,452, or say, in round numbers, two millions. The population of the whole State may be roughly placed at 6,600,000. This city, therefore, very rapidly approaching the position of having one-third of the whole population of the State, and New York and Brooklyn together already contain nearly half of that population. Their present representation is, therefore, virtually all they could ever obtain if the proposed amendment should become and remain a part of the fundamental law. The proposed numerical increase of the Legislature does not of course, essentially modify this statement. Now, under their existing relations to the State, the people of this city pay 45½ per cent. of its whole taxation. That is to say, while the total State tax for the present year is $9,155,742, New York's share of it is $4,173,712. It pays on account of the school tax $1,-$18,820, of which there is refunded to it a little over $700,000, and it pays for the care of the insane in State asylums $631,800, from which it does not get a dollar of direct or indirect returns. In short, New York city will this year make the taxpayers of the rest of the State a present of about $1,740,000 to be employed for the reduction of their local burdens. The whole charge of the insane in State asylums is, for this year, $1,380,000. New York and Kings pay for the maintenance of the pauper inmates of their own insane asylums, and have to contribute between them at least $800,000 for the support of the insane wards of the other counties of the State besides.

So admirably does this plan work for the rural counties that most of them get back from the State treasury more than they pay into it. Gov. Flower showed last year that twenty-eight of them received a refund of $333,679 in excess of the total sum which they paid to the State. The amounts varied from $31,100 in Clinton county to $400 in Saratoga, representing extremely variable percentages, but all standing for a highly profitable kind of State connection. In the other thirty-two counties that paid to the State more than the State paid back to them, the contributions of a third were merely nominal, being less than one-half a mill per dollar of assessed valuation; while New York city's rate of net State taxation was 2 1-10 mills, yielding over 65 per cent. of the whole amount. Thus it happens that while the burden of State taxation in this city is $2.08 per head of the population, it is for the rest of the State, only $1.08 per head. Thus, too, it is that twenty-eight counties are not only virtually relieved of the payment of State taxes, but receive more or less substantial annual premiums for the privilege of having them as partners in this commonwealth, and other twenty-four counties pay less than a mill on the dollar of assessed valuation for the support of the State government. The eight counties whose rate of net taxation for State purposes last year equalled or exceeded a mill were Albany, Erie, Genesee, Kings, Livingston, Monroe, New York and Westchester. Some of these had compensations.

But New York has no compensation, no "offsets." It spends this year five millions on its public schools, not counting a million and a half for new school buildings, in addition to the eleven hundred thousand dollars that it contributes for the support of free education in other counties of the State. It pays nine hundred thousand dollars for the support of the insane within its own borders in addition to the six hundred and thirty-two thousand dollars it has to give for the State asylums. The city buys land for its armories, builds and maintains them entirely at its own expense, and it pays in addition at least 50 per cent. of the cost of building and maintaining armories throughout the State. The interest of the upper part of the State in giving permanence to such a division of the burden of taxation is certainly more obvious than that of the lower part of the State in approving of such an arrangement.—New York Journal of Commerce.

DEMOCRATIC STATE COMMITTEE.

An Appeal for Funds to Meet the Expenses of the Canvass.

To Democrats and all others desiring Democratic success:

The impending election will decide the fate of Democracy in the State of New York for years to come. The result will be most anxiously awaited everywhere by those who believe in Democratic doctrines. The far-reaching effects of defeat in this hitherto great stronghold of Democracy are hourly becoming better and more thoroughly understood in even the most remote States and wherever Democrats have gained a foothold.

But the party is still in extreme peril. A combination of conditions, the culmination of years of Republican policies, seems to have inspired our Republican opponents with the idea that they may, under cover of general discontent, deal a death blow to Democracy. Should the constitutional apportionment amendment be adopted it will be practically impossible to dislodge the Republican machine from control of the Legislature for a generation to come.

The Republican candidate is a millionaire. Everything that wealth can buy to aid in the overthrow of Democracy is being brought into requisition.

Our candidate is poor. All that he has—brains, energy, integrity and matchless courage—has been freely given to the great cause of Democracy in the hour of its extremity. A month ago and no one was bold enough to predict the possibility of Democratic success in New York. When all others stood aloof, he stepped fearlessly to the front; his courage inspired courage, and probable rout has been turned to possible victory.

It is most essential that the majority of the New York State delegation in the House of Representatives be Democratic. If in 1896 there should be a failure to elect in the electoral college, that majority might easily be required to save the country from untold ills.

But the Democracy of New York know full well what great wealth at the disposal of their opponents can accomplish. Nevertheless, if the committee in charge of the Democratic canvass in this State can be supplied with sufficient funds to properly present to the people in all legitimate ways the issues at stake, it is confidently believed that all the wealth of our opponents will be unavailing and the cause of Democracy will triumph.

We confidently appeal to the people for assistance. Every contribution, however small, will be thankfully received and properly acknowledged.

J. W. HINKLEY,
Chairman.

Address, at Park Avenue hotel, New York city.

A Response from Andrew Jackson's Grand Niece.

All the letters received by the Democratic State Committee speak encouragingly, and many contain contributions in response to the call issued several days ago. One letter probably more than any other attracted attention. It was from Mrs. Mary Emily Donelson Wilcox, of Washington. She is the grand niece of Andrew Jackson, and was born in the White House. Her mother was the daughter of Andrew Jackson Donelson. Mrs Wilcox's mother was the mistress of the White House during the eight years that Mrs. Wilcox's grand uncle, Old Hickory, was President. Mrs Wilcox, in a prefatory note, says:

"I imbibed with my mother's milk a love and reverence for Democratic principles, and have never swerved from my first allegiance." Mrs. Wilcox then encloses her check for $25, with the following letter.

No 2,021 O Street,
Washington, Oct 23, 1894.

"Hon. John B Thacher.

"Sir,—Believeing that Senator Hill's election as Governor of New York would be a triumph for the political faith cherished by my forefathers, believing also that Senator Hill's action, in sacrificing personal considerations and becoming the Democratic standard bearer in this campaign, entitles him to a place with those historical leaders—ancient and modern—who, when great issues were at stake and duty called, at once obeyed the summons, and in the storm and stress of conflict did heroic service for truth and liberty. I think every Democrat should stand by him, the men giving their votes, the women their prayers.

"In all elections there are many legitimate expenses. Knowing this I enclose a check for twenty-five ($25) dollars, which, though a paltry contribution, will, I trust, like another widow's mite, of whom it was said 'she did what she could,' prove acceptable and bear good fruit in a worthy cause. Very respectfully,

"Mary Emily Donelson Wilcox."

Senator Hill was at the hotel when Mrs. Wilcox's letter was received, and Mr. Thacher handed it to him. The Senator is hte busiest man in New York State. Every minute is an hour to him, but he declared that he would upset everything but that he would send Mrs. Wilcox his deepest thanks. Mr. Thacher and all others were delighted with Mrs. Wilcob's letter.

Who Introduced the "Religious Issue?"

The Rochester Post-Express (Ind.) is not supporting Senator Hill for Governor, but it says the plea "that Senator Hill introduced the religious issue is false," and it adds: "If the Republicans assembled at Saratoga had passed the simple declaration submitted to the Committee on Resolutions, which is consonant with the traditions of the party, there would have been no foothold for Apaism anywhere, and no possibility of religious discussion. David B. Hill saw very clearly that, under the circumstances, he would get no Apaistic votes; and so, both as a matter of sentiment and policy, he challenged their hostility and urged home the charge of Republican alliance with their organization. He is doing precisely what George W. Aldridge did in the recent municipal election, and it is a wise and manly thing to do, for the issue when raised at all should be frankly met." Is this not a fair statement of the case?—Buffalo Courier.

Senator Hill possesses the ability to go to the people and give reasons for his election. Is such apility to be so easily bowled down by a barrel?

OPPOSITION TO THE AMENDMENT AGAINST BREEDING.

Reasons Why Every Farmer Should Vote Against the Pernicious Amendment Which Will Ruin the Breeding Industry In This State—Horse Breeding and Wall Street.

Owners of trotters and blood stock in this vicinity, as, in fact, throughout the state, are very much exercised over the constitutional amendment, section 9, which, if passed, will close up every county fair and trotting track in the state and cause the loss of millions of dollars annually to the farming community. Said a well known gentleman recently who is largely interested in the breeding of trotters:

"The state of New York has depended in the past and must certainly depend in the future, so far as its farmers are concerned, upon the stock raising industry. The present price of cereals is such that the valuable farms of the state would have to become almost valueless before they could be raised at a profit. The average price of wool precludes the possibility of this department of the farm being looked upon as a permanent source of profit and revenue. The capacity of the dairy farms is well known, and it is equally well known that the returns leave an exceedingly small profit on the investment, and that it requires the utmost frugality and persistent industry to make both ends meet. With these regular revenues of the farmer's profit cut off or greatly curtailed, he has naturally turned his attention to raising the high class trotter, carriage horse and roadster, and as a result the state has been enriched many millions of dollars.

"It is impossible to estimate the vast revenue derived by the farmers of the state directly and indirectly from breeding the trotting horse alone. Forty-five years ago a poor farmer in Orange county bought a mare, with a colt by her side. He was put in the stud as soon as possible, and though early training was then unknown his colts soon became popular. The services of the young stallion were soon in full demand. His produce were not only valuable as high class roadsters, but they soon proved that they could hold their own on the trotting track. One of them became the champion, and the fame of the hero of Chester, Hambletonian, 10, spread to all parts of the world where a great horse is appreciated. William M. Rysdyk, his owner, from a poor, obscure farmer, became a wealthy man, and the horse, during his career, netted him nearly $500,000. This was just so much wealth added to the country.

"But this is a mere drop in the bucket. Another farmer in the state got one of his sons, afterward known as Volunteer, and from the revenues derived from the produce of that great sire built up a substantial fortune. The master of Stony Ford early recognized the value of the blood of Hambletonian and inaugurated and developed not only one of the greatest stock farms in the state, but one of the greatest on the continent. For a quarter of a century this farm has been a center of attraction to buyers from all sections of the Union, and the earning capacity of the farms must have been immeasurably greater than it could have possibly been if devoted to raising ordinary farm produce. The state is dotted over with farms devoted to the breed, and it is one of the most prominent sources of its income. If we leave out of account the farms exclusively devoted to breeding the trotter, we have thousands of farmers who, living near the stock farms, breed two or three mares every year to some good stallion and get their principal income from the sale of the colts.

"Yet it is proposed at one blow to destroy it by the passage of one of these amendments. If you take away a man's customers, he must give up business, and if the trotting tracks of the state are closed there will be no demand for the trotting horse. The direct effect of the passage of the amendment will be to close every trotting track in the state. It may be contended by the supporters of this measure that the stock farms of the state can still sell their stock elsewhere, but why should they be compelled to do so when they have a lucrative market at home? Why should they be told by official enactment that, while they may live in the state and pay their taxes and discharge the duties of citizenship, they will not, they shall not, earn the money to do so within its limits? Why should they be told, 'If you were a Wall street broker speculating in stocks, or in the real estate business speculating in lots, or a grain or oil man speculating in futures, or a railroad man speculating in shares on account of a rise or fall in freight rates, you would be pursuing a legitimate calling, although you do not add one cent to the material wealth of the state, but as you are engaged in a great industry which does, and which, as an incident to its success, requires racing competitions in which there is speculation to a limited extent, we will stop you by law and destroy the value of your property.'

"It is a law of business that the merchant locates his store in the neighborhood of his customers, and in obedience to that law, should this amendment pass, the great business of breeding the trotting horse will go to other states. A few wealthy farms with national reputations will survive, but the small ones will go to the wall, while the farmer who raised a few colts will find his market utterly destroyed. At the present time the small farmer who has a promising colt can break him in his leisure hours. There is a local trotting track in the neighborhood, where he can, without any expense, give him his preliminary lessons. He meets there the local trainers, who can and do give him valuable hints on development. When his colt develops, he meets there the buyer, who buys the colt on the speed shown, but when the track has been sold and the trainer has gone to some state whose statesmen are not so stupid as to propose to destroy a great industry, and whose citizens are not so ignorant as to vote for it, the farmer will find no purchaser for his colt, and his only market will be the sale repository in some distant city, and when the freight and commission on the sale are deducted he will have a very inadequate return.

"The farmer and small breeder must also bear in mind that, should this amendment pass, there will be a general depreciation in value of all classes of horses. A farmer who owns, say, ten horses, which he thinks fair value at $200 each, will suddenly find that it would be hard for him to sell them at half the money. Are the farmers of the state prepared to deliberately depreciate the value of their property to gratify the desires of a few Puritanical zealots and log rolling politicians?"

A NOBLEMAN IN FACT AND NAME

Germany's Great Baron and His Wonderful Discovery.

We are apt to forget the significance of the word "nobleman," although a moment's consideration brings it clearly before our minds.

If ever a man lived who was justified in bearing the title it was Baron Justus von Liebig. The entire life of this good and brilliant man was devoted to thoughtful study toward the amelioration of suffering and the advancement of science.

Like most men of genius he rode a hobby, and this hobby was the great question of food and digestion.

Not the least among his inventions was a process by which starchy foods may be artificially digested outside of the body, and energy thus spared for expenditure in other directions.

This may not interest the men and women of robust digestion, who go from an elaborate dinner free from distress or even consciousness that their stomachs are doing a great work.

It will, however, strongly appeal to the miserable, pale, thin dyspeptics, who look upon eating as a disagreeable necessity, and realize that every mouthful of food is to contribute one more ache or pain to their sufferings. They will recognize that by the use of such an artificially digested food, their tired stomachs can be rested and recuperated.

Like many other advances in science, Baron Liebig's invention has never been practically applied until recently. Now, however, in Paskola, the new medicinal food, we have the embodiment of his idea. No wonder, then, that this product has been so successful in the treatment of indigestion, and attracted such widespread attention.

Paskola is simply an artifically digested food, combined with organic principals, which aid the digestion of other foods in the stomach.

It is palatable; it needs no preparation beyond a simple dilution in water, but it affords almost immediate relief.

What it does is best told by those who are using it. We quote from a few of the letters which have reached us recently.

Mr. John Fleck of Wilmore, Pa., states as follows, under date of September 11: "For five or six years I have been troubled with indigestion, which culminated about six weeks ago, when I broke down completely. Having noticed your advertisements, I resolved to give Paskola a trial, and accordingly bought a small-sized bottle. I felt a decided improvement from the very day I began to use it and can now eat almost anything without pain or distress, and firmly believe that had it not been for Paskola I would be numbered with the great majority that rest beneath the sod.

I unhesitatingly recommend it to all who are troubled with indigestion or dispepsia."

Mrs. Authur M. McClure, of Rutland, Vt., wrote under date of July 24, in part as follows: "For eight months I had been a complete invalid. My physician said it was as bad a case of nervous exhaustion as he had ever seen I had gained very little under a course of tonics and rest. I had no appetite; digestion badly impaired; could get very little sleep without the aid of narcotics; my heart palpitated to suffocation upon the slightest exertion or excitement, and my nervous condition was something frightful. I was unable to do anything. I have taken four bottles of Paskola and am pleased to say that my appetite and strength increased from the very first week of its use. The extreme nervousness gradually grew less. In fact, I feel better in every way, and have gained flesh until my weight is now normal,"

In conclusion we might say that the flesh-producing qualities of Paskola are not surprising when we consider that starch is nature's source of fat, and the base of our preparation, as previously stated, is artifically digested starch. A tired stomach, like a tired back, need's rest. Paskola will rest your stomach. If you will send your name to the Pre-digested Food Company, of No 30 Reade Street, New York, they will send you an interesting pamphlet on on this all-important subject of food and digestion.

A WONDERFUL REMEDY.

MR WILBER MALTBY, OF CORTLAND, N. Y., TELLS HOW HE WAS CURED.

What Other Remedies Failed to Do Pink Pills Accomplished—The Interesting Information Gathered by a Reporter.

From the Cortland, N. Y., Standard.

The Standard has published within the past few months statements and affidavits of cures, which have appeared almost miraculous, of various persons who have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The statements appeared entirely honest, but a reporter of the Standard desired to satisfy himself and the editors of the Standard that they were publishing bona fide affidavits, and hearing that Mr. Wilber Maltby, of 16 Park St., Cortland, N.Y., had been greatly benefited by the use of the pills, he called on him. He was ushered into their pleasant, sitting-room, which was very cozy and home-like. Mrs. Maltby was busy sewing, while Mr. Maltby told the following story:

"I had not done a stroke of work since a year ago the Fourth of last July, till a short time ago, after I had taken a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had been running down some time before, but on the above date I had a general break down of my system. My stomach, liver and blood were all in some way affected. I called a physician, but he let it run into a bronchial difficulty, and I began taking medicine put up by a Rochester firm but received no great benefit. I soon dropped that and went to taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I am now on my seventh box and you can see what they have done for me.

"I began taking the pills about the first of July and have just now opened my seventh box. I weighed only 114 pounds then and have gained twenty-five pounds since. That shows what it has done for me. Why, the first box gave my system such a renovating that it frightened both my wife and myself, but I had greatly improved when I had taken my third box. It was about a month ago that I first went out of doors to do much work. They say that I look better than I have for the past five years. My appetite is something enormous, my countenance is good and I feel like a new man."

The reporter visited Mr. Maltby at his home a number of weeks previously and had endeavored to get time to go to the Glen Haven Sanitarium, on Skeneateles Lake, for treatment, but before deciding to go he had begun the use of the Pink Pills and found out what they would do for him. At the time the reporter visited him first he certainly looked as if his days were numbered, but he has grown so well, and his increased appetite and the color in her cheeks have so improved his appearance, that he had a difficult time believing that it was really Wilber Maltby who sat so well and happy, playing with his little girl on the sofa. Pink Pills certainly had done a great deal for him.

"But my cure is nothing," said Mr. Maltby, "as compared with others I know of,"

"What others?" queried the reporter.

"Well, Eva Fralicks, for one. She lives on Richard St. She looked like a dead girl before she began taking Pink Pills; all run down, no color in her cheeks, and the doctors were unable to tell what was the matter. She replied that she felt all run down and weak. I could not tell which color predominated most in her face, white or yellow, but at any rate she was a very sick girl. All the neighbors told her parents that she was going to die. All had given her up. She only took a few boxes of the pills; the roses have returned to her cheeks and she is now healthier than ever."

"I met her on the street the other night," said Mrs. Maltby, "and I asked her where she got her rosy cheeks. She said, with a happy satisfied smile, that Pink Pills was what did it."

An analysis of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills shows that they contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk, or by the 100—by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y., or Brockville, Ontario.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middle-N. Y.

Arrested for Embezzlement.

PERRY, O T., Oct. 31.—Hon. H. G. Stewart, one of the most prominent attorneys in Oklahoma territory, was arrested here on a warrant sworn out in Sabetha county, Kan., charging him with embezzling $9,097 in 1884. Stewart's friends immediately swore out a writ of habeas corpus, and it seems now as though the Kansas authorities will be unable to get him out of the territory.

Jacksonville Bricklayers on Strike.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 31.—All the union bricklayers in the city are on strike for $3 per day for nine hours' work. They have been working ten hours at private terms. Contractors on a number of prominent buildings are not disturbed, being sanguine that they can fill their places without difficulty.

Sued for Class Discrimination.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31.—Mary Louise Hayward, a colored woman, has sued the Louisville and Nashville railway in the United States circuit court for $10,000 damages, alleging refusal of the railway company on June 18, 1894, to allow her to ride in a first class car from Cincinnati to Lexington, Ky.

Monument to Emperor Frederick.

BERLIN, Oct. 31.—A monument to Emperor Frederick, father of Emperor William, was unveiled in Wittenberg today, and it creates comment that Emperor William declined to be present. Empress Frederick was also prevented from going to witness the unveiling of her husband's monument.

Stabbed by Highwaymen.

READING, Pa., Oct. 31. — Highwaymen beat and stabbed Charles Hoffman, aged 73 years, so badly on the streets here last night that his life is despaired of.

Detained Immigrants Landed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Four hundred and ninety-three steerage passengers, who arrived at this port Oct. 14 on the North German Lloyd steamer Kronprinz Friedrich Wilhelm, from Naples, and who have been detained at Hoffman Island since that date for observation, were landed at Ellis Island yesterday. This number includes two stowaways and one infant born on Hoffman Island.

Police Justice Charged with Embezzlement.

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 31.—Justice of the Peace James K. Murphy was arrested yesterday afternoon for the alleged embezzlement of $3,200 from Alexander Tonolski and August Janecke, of 604 Grove street. They allege that they gave Justice Murphy the money to pay off a mortgage on a house purchased by them. Justice Potts held the prisoner in $2,000 bail.

Killed Himself with Gas.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Oct. 31. — Steven Stach, aged 21, bartender for Henry Ribatski, of North Wilkesbarre, in the absence of Ribatski's family went to another room, closed the windows, put a quilt over the door and tore open the gas pipe. Precautions were so well taken that discovery was not made until Stach had been dead some hours.

Exploding Boiler Kills Two.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 31.—By the explosion of the boiler at the sawmill of A. T. Kreps, in South Parkersburg, John Kreps, son of the owner, and David Jones were killed instantly, and Benjamin Mounts was severely injured.

Austrian General Arrested.

VIENNA, Oct 31.—Polish papers announce the arrest of an Austrian general on the charge of selling to Russia plans of Austrian fortifications. The papers say that Russia paid the officer a million florins for the plans.

Bloody Duel with Axes.

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct 31.—News of a bloody duel, fought in Perriel county, has been received here. William Griffin and Leroy Moore are two farmers and neighbors with large families. The son of one and the daughter of the other have recently been keeping company. The fathers were mutually incensed over the matter. They met on Monday and entered upon a duel with axes, both sinking their weapons to the helves in each other's head, falling to the ground and dying together.

Twenty Years for a Murderer.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Sidney Plummer, the murderer of Harry Richardson, a half grown colored boy, near Marlton, in May last, pleaded guilty of murder in the second degree and was sentenced to twenty years at hard labor in state prison.

Orange County received, this year, $554.46 as its share of the tax on trotting and racing associations and under the law, as amended by the last Legislature, its share next year is estimated at $2,772. This money, which is devoted to the encouragement of agriculture, will be lost to the county if the constitutional amendments are adopted. Vote against them all.

Eugene S. Ives has made an active canvass and has visited nearly every part of this big Congressional District. Wherever he has gone he has made a good impression as a clean cut, wide awake, intelligent, able man. He is a man of affairs and is familiar with all public questions He will make a good representative. Vote for him.

Charles Ketcham, the Democratic cand date for County Clerk, has represented his town in the Board of Supervisors for a number of years and has been a faithful servant of his town and of the whole county. His industry, ability and aptitude for public business have been recognized by both Democratic and Republican Supervisors, who unite in praising his zeal and efficiency. His familiarity with county affairs especially qualifies him for the office of County Clerk and, if elected, he will make one of the best Clerks the county has ever had. Vote for him.

P. D. Armour, the great meat packer of Chicago, knows that business is improving and is glad of an opportunity to say so. He sent, yesterday, the following telegram to Baldwin & Furman, of the New York Produce Exchange, and when shown on the floor of the Exchange it had a cheering effect:

People have got into the chronic habit of saying times are bad. They cannot see any improvement. I think things are on the mend. I know that our business is good—never better.

We are selling 50 per cent. more glue than this time last year. Glue enters into the manufacture of so many articles that it is one of the best signs of business People generally are buying again and trade is reviving steadily.

On the second page of this paper will be found a well considered article from the Journal of Commerce on the proposed apportionment, devised by the Republicans in the Constitutional Convention to rob the Democratic cities of representation in Senate and Assembly and vest the legislative power in the rural counties which give Republican majorities. The whole scheme is abhorrent to the theory of equal rights on which our Government is founded. It was conceived in a spirit of the meanest partisanship, as a certain method of securing Republican control of the State Government and insuring Republican representation in the United States Senate. It is being made a partisan issue by the Republicans. Be sure and vote against it. A failure to vote against it is a vote in favor of the iniquity.

The Press appeals to Orange county farmers to vote the Republican ticket because Germany, in retaliation for the duty imposed by the Wilson bill on its beet sugar, proposes to put such a high duty on American beef, pork and grain as will exclude them from German markets. It will, of course, occur to the intelligent reader that since Orange county does not produce enough beef, pork and grain for its own consumption the markets of the whole world could be closed against those commodities without in any way affecting the pockets of Orange county farmers, and this fact makes the Press's "argument" absolutely pointless. There is, however, no warrant for the statement that Germany proposes to resort to retaliatory measures. It has stopped the importation of live cattle from this country because tuberculosis has been discovered among recent importations; and that is all. Our cattle trade with Germany has never been of any importance. In 1893 we sent there 419 head and thus far this year 3,069, out of a total of 359,011 exported. We have sent there, this year, 1,066 pounds of dressed beef worth $80. The loss of such a less than insignificant part of our foreign trade isn't enough to give even a calamity howling organ an extra twinge.

WORTHY OF POPULAR CONFIDENCE

From the Newburgh Register.

John C. R. Taylor, of Middletown, is making an excellent run on the Democratic ticket for County Judge. From all quarters come words of praise for Mr. Taylor. He made a splendid run for Mayor of Middletown not a great while ago, and he will beat this record in his contest for a seat on the bench. Jude Beattie, the present incumbent, and the competitor of Mr. Taylor, last winter, tried to get a raise of salary from $1,500 per year to $3,000. The bill went through the Assembly but was killed in the Senate. It was then felt that it was a poor period for any man to ask for a raise. Business is better now of course, but $1,500 per year is pretty good pay any way for a County Judge whose time is occupied only a few weeks at most during all the year, giving the occupant of the position plenty of time for his private practice. John C. R. Taylor will take the place and never talk about a raise. He will be satisfied with $1,500 per year. Give him a chance this fall and let us see what he will do. Nothing better than a change once in a while. Economy is the watchword all along the line now, and our public servants are the proper persons to set us examples. Vote for John C. R. Taylor for County Judge, and all of the county ticket.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHING WITHOUT PROFIT.

That's exactly it. Children's clothing without profit. We shall revolutionize the trade of Orange county in children's clothing. So many people think that a boy in knickerbockers should be dressed for little or nothing, that they often indulge in such suits, much to the detriment of the child's appearance, and their own disgust. Besides this, we have a pride in seeing the boys well dressed, and we have a name and reputation for clothing young men, but with these knickerbocker boys that's hard to get, for there are so many competitors; why, even the dry goods stores sell 'em now-a-days. But we're bound to have the boy's trade; and, hereafter, we shall sell all our knickerbocker clothing without profit, at just cost. All our stock has been re-marked in plain figures, at exactly what it was billed to us by the manufacturers. Is not that an inducement sufficient to bring your boys to us? Remember, boys clothing without profit!

Mighty interesting reading the recent report of a State Dairy and Food Commissioner! The mask of deception is torn from so many articles posing as pure!

For instance, one brand of Beef, Iron and Wine made by a manufacturer, who labels it with the local druggist's name if desired, was a concoction of Alcohol, water and Iron flavored, BUT CONTAINING NO BEEF. Some of that stuff has been offered to the dealers in this city. Who bought it? Beware of Beef, Iron and Wine sold for less than good materials would cost. All Beef, Iron and Wine sold by us, and bearing our label, is made in our Laboratory, from fine Imported Sherry Wine, Citrate Iron and pure Extract Beef. IT CONTAINS NO SALCYLIC ACID! It is useful in debility and acceptable to a delicate stomach. Its formula is open to any reputable physician.

Another fraud was Cod Liver Oil adulterated with Cotton Seed Oil! What do you think of that for a sick person. Much of the stuff called "Emulsion" is nothing but Cod Liver Oil converted into Soft Soap by adding alkalies, made by some large manufacturer, who puts the retail druggist's name on it. Our Cod Liver Oil whether in Emulsion or as clear oil, is guaranteed finest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil—absolutely pure. It is worth your while to remember this. Our Emulsion Cod Liver Oil is made in our own Laboratory, so our claims for it are facts based on knowledge.

HALLOWE'EN.

You must walk down cellar backwards.
Then you look into a glass,
And there peering o'er your shoulder
See your love, my little lass.

You must peel a rosy apple,
Throw the peeling on the floor,
Where it forms the loved initial
Of the lad whom you adore.

You must name a lot of chestnuts,
And then roast them in a row,
And the one which pops the quickest,
Pop's, because he loves you so.

Having followed these old customs,
Should you fail to learn your fate,
Still have patience and remember
All things come to those who wait.

GOV. FLOWER'S SPEECH-MAKING TRIP

To Be in Orange County, Saturday—Five Short Speeches.

Gov. Flower, who is making a tour of the State, making short speeches for Senator Hill, will come east on the Erie, Saturday, and his schedule provides for five speeches in Orange county, that afternoon.

He will speak from the platform of his car at the Erie stations as follows: Port Jervis at 2:30; Middletown, 3:55; Goshen, 4:38; Monroe, 5:30; Tuxedo, 6:17.

LIVE LOCAL TOPICS.

—Go to the B. of L. F. ball, at the Assembly Rooms, to-night.

—Progressive parchesi parties are popular with Port Jervis girls.

—If the rain continues it will interfere with the plans that the boys have laid for the observance of Hallowe'en.

—Rev. H. Katz, of 54 Sprague avenue, advertises to give German lessons to children for $1 per month.

—Farmers who brought their milk to the condensery, this morning, got as thorough a soaking as they have had at any time this year.

—Bear in mind the ball of Lucky Thought Lodge, B. of L. F., at the Assembly Rooms, to-night. Music by Prof. Collins's orchestra, of Newburgh.

—Will the subscribing members of the Schubert Club concerts see that their seats are marked off as early as possible? The chart will be open Nov. 1st, at Hanford & Horton's.

—Merchants in all branches of trade in this city say that business is good and that buyers are well supplied with cash. There may be hard times in some places, but Middletown isn't feeling them.

—All invited guests of Waalkill Engine Company who intend to accompany it to Passaic, to-morrow, should be at the truck house by 7:30 a. m. Tickets may be bought at the truck house, this evening and Thursday morning.

—Anyone wishing to go with the Waalkill Engine Company to Passaic, N. J., to-morrow, can purchase tickets at the James street depot for $1 65 for the round trip. The Passaic parade will be one of the largest ever seen in that part of New Jersey. A good time is assured everyone attending.

PERSONAL.

—Mr. John Parsons, of Brooklyn, a former resident of this city, is in town calling on friends.

—Mrs. E. M. Babcock, wife of the General Secretary of the Port Jervis Y. M. C. A., died Monday, of heart disease at her home in Plattsburg. She was not well enough to accompany her husband when he came to Port Jervis, a short time since, but her condition was not thought to be critical until just before her death

—Mrs. Stillwell, wife of Rev. J. L. Stillwell, of Bloomingburgh, who has been ill at the residence of Mr. Elting Cuddeback, her father, for the past five weeks, returned home Monday in a much improved condition.—Port Jervis Gazette.

Imira's Democratic Wigwam.

There being no hall in Elmira large enough to accommodate the crowd expected at Senator Hill's meeting there, Saturday night, the Democrats are building a wigwam with seats for 5,000 people and standing room for 10,000. Carpenters are working on the building night and day.

SENATOR HILL

Will Speak at the Erie Depot for 10 Minutes,

ON

ARRIVAL OF TRAIN 30,

AT

4.43 This Afternoon

SENATOR HILL IN TOWN.

A Passenger on Train One on His Way to Port Jervis—Welcomed by an Enthusiastic Crowd—A Brief Speech—None of Depew's "Splendor and Luxury."

It was generally understood that Senator Hill would not pass through Middletown, until this afternoon, but when the New York papers arrived in town, this morning, it was learned that the Democratic standard bearer would be a passedger on Erie train 1. A bulletin to this effect was displayed in front of the ARGUS office with the result that when train 1 pulled into the James street depot, a crowd nearly as large as that which greeted the much heralded Depew, who was advertised to speak, was in waiting to greet the next Governor of the Empire State, not expecting to hear a speech at all. The downfall of rain was much heavier than when Mr. Depew stopped an hour earlier, but it takes more than rain to dampen the ardor of Democrats.

DAVID B. HILL.

There was more enthusiasm to the square inch in the two minutes of Mr. Hill's stay than there was in the whole quarter of an hour of Mr. Depew's visit.

The behavior of the crowd was in striking contrast to that of the one which greeted Mr. Depew. Although there were many Democrats in the Depew audience they behaved with the utmost decorum and listened to the speaker with respectful attention. He was not interrupted once during his remarks and no one would have suspected the presence of a political adversary in the crowd. Senator Hill, however, had scarcely opened his mouth to speak and had referred to Mr. Depew's visit, when a blatant representative of the G. O. P., interrupted him.

To Middletown's credit be it said that the man was not a citizen of this city, but under his leadership a half dozen hoodlums, who stood near him, joined in his efforts to drown the speaker's voice.

Mr. Hill's appearance upon the platform of the Pullman car was the signal for an outburst of enthusiastic cheers, such as has not been heard in this city in many a day.

Mr. Hill said:

Fellow Citizens:

"I thank you for this informal reception tendered me in the rain. I am on my way to Port Jervis, where I will speak to the people of that village, this afternoon. I regret that I have not time to speak to you, but in a few words will say that the Democratic party is right in this campaign, and by united action and healing of dissentions, will win the fight and I am here to tell you so. I regret that I have no time to reply to some of Mr. Depew's sophistries, but will do so at Port Jervis, this afternoon."

The starting of the train interrupted the speaker and the crowd broke out again with three rousing cheers for "David B. Havid, our next Governor."

Although Mr. Depew passed through Middletown on a special train and in his private car, with "all the oriental splendor and luxury" connected therewith, and told the people of this city that Mr. Hill was traveling in a like sumptuous manner, the latter was a passenger upon a regular train, and sat in a Pullman coach open to the public, in which an attache of one of the greatest monopolies on earth collected fares. A Democrat, who boarded the train at Goshen, was "touched" for a quarter by the Pullman official of the car, and not having the necessary "coin" in his pocket, was compelled to borrow the same from a friend who was riding in the coach with the Senator.

CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW'S FLITTING.

His Fifteen Minute Speech at the Erie Depot—Several Hundred Present in Spite of the Rain.

A crowd of between 300 and 400 people gathered at the Erie depot, this morning, to see and listen to Hon. Chauncey M. Depew, America's greatest post-prandial orator, who, this morning, started on a four days' stumping tour of the State of New York. Among the crowd were many Democrats, who are always ready to listen to a good talker, no matter what his politics may be, and Mr. Depew's reputation as a court jester was a guarantee that there would be something amusing to listen to.

Rain fell in torrents, but the crowd stood it bravely, and with the usual good nature of all true American crowds kept their umbrelas down in order that all might have an unobstructed view of "Our own Chauncey."

It is doubtful if anything Mr. Depew said will make one vote for the Republican party. Thoughtful men of all parties know that many of the wrongs he attributed to the Democratic party are legacies left from the Harrison administration and the effects of McKinleyism.

The train pulled into the depot at 10 o'clock, and Mr. Depew was introduced to the crowd from the rear end of the last car by Hon. M. D. Stivers,

Mr. Depew began by saying that he had read in a Democratic paper this morning, that he had started out in his private car, in all the oriental splendor and luxury of an Eastern potentate, to talk to the workingmen of this State. He did not think he should be censured for this, for he had lent similar cars to Gov. Flower and Senator Hill and they were on the same mission, and if one Democratic Governor and one Democratic Senator could do it, he didn't see why one Republican could not enjoy the same privileges. He then branched off into a lecture to railroad men, hit the farmers a rap for voting the Democratic ticket and pointing to Mr. Odell, who stood on the platform, promised the people that if they elected him to Congress the McKinley bill would be restored, which means that the country will go through another era of tariff tinkering and business uncertainty.

Words flow from Mr. Depew's mouth with the same easiness that water does down a duck's back, but words and glittering periods may be multiplied beyond number, and yet have no sense. For instance, Mr. Depew discoursed with much feeling, almost with tearful eyes, about the wrongs which low tariff on hay entails upon the Orange county farmer (evidently some flabbergasted brained Middletown Republican had "put him wrong") with the impression that Orange county farmers make a business of growing hay for market. He said his railroad had been off red baled Canadian hay on the Canadian border at $6 a ton, a price ruinous to American farmers. The orator didn't say anything about what this Canadian hay would cost Orange county farmers, with freight charges added, —but this apart, had he known his audience, he would have skipped hay as a vehicle for high protective tariff argument. Orange county farmers do not make a business of growing hay for market. Indeed, experience has brought it home to them that, season in and season out, they have use on their farms for all the hay their acres can produce; in fact, even the best managers among them occasionally, "between hay and grass," have to come to town for baled hay to bait their cattle. Human wisdom and management can not avert drouths and consequent short crops. To sum it up, there are more hay buying farmers than there are hay selling farmers in Orange county. If you don't believe this, attend the next vendue and watch the farmers bid for hay. As Gen. Hancock said,—"tariff is a local issue," and when Dr. Depew is billed for tariff speeches, he ought to make a business of studying up locality.

The speaker's remarks were interspersed with many amusing anecdotes, which kept the crowd in a good humor, but when he got to "Uncle Levi," as he termed the head of the Republican ticket, the crowd began to get impatient, and wanted to put up their umbrellas. Noticing the effect of Morton's name on the crowd, the speaker saw that it was time to quit and after proposing three cheers for the whole ticket he backed into the car.

Mr. Stivers, who has forgotten and forgiven the cold blooded way in which Ben Odell "threw him down" in the Congressional campaign of 1886 introduced Mr. Odell, as "Ben B. Odle" and said that Mr. "Odle" had a speech up his sleeve, but on account of the rain would not deliver it. Evidently Mr. Stivers thought that there are limits to human endurance, and that the rain and one of "Ben Odle's" speeches would be more than the crowd could stand in one day.

Among who accompanied Mr. Depew were ex-Senator Richardson, B. B. Odell, Jr., Hon. M. D. Stivers and Col. W. D. Dickey.

People Preparing to Migrate to Winter Quarters — Personal Mention — A Possible Re-Incarnation.

(From a Special Correspondent.)

—Mrs. A. S. Murray and family will leave their home in this village on the 1st of November for New York, where they will spend the remainder of the fall and the winter.

—Hon. Henry Bacon and family will leave about the middle of next month for New York, where they expect to spend the winter months.

—Mr. John H. Murray, of Washington, D. C., is spending a few days with relatives in this in village.

—The ladies of St. James's Guild met, yesterday afternoon, at the residence of Miss Alice Neafie, for the purpose of sewing for the missionary box.

—One very often hears the expression, "If I could only live my life over again," but after all there are probably very few who would really be willing to re-live the same old life, unless indeed it had been an exceptionally happy one. It would be like reading a book for the second time directly after finishing it for the first. There would be no zest in it, because we should know just exactly what was about to happen next.

—If re-incarnation be possible, why not choose next to be an Australian bushman, for instance? We learn from books that in his country the compass points to the south, owls hoot in the day time, the east winds are healthy, the north winds hot, the swans black and the coal white. This state of affairs would at least introduce some variety into the second volume of our lives.

—Among the things that are calculated to make us willing to re live one portion of our childhood at least, is the sight of a happy party of youngsters going nutting, this pleasant autumn weather. This we should prefer doing in our own country for, according to the general topsy-turviness of things in Australia, perhaps there the trees shake and thrash the children. The recollection of the thrill of delightful excitement we were wont to experience when the nuts came rattling down from the branches, the search for them among the fallen leaves and the return at evening toward that beautiful, glowing, golden Western sky, with heavy bags and baskets, but the lightest of hearts, and how we did laugh, to be sure. The jokes that moved us to hilarity were neither very wise nor very witty, but we have never heard any in later days that began to be so funny. The proud exhibition of our treasures when we reached home, the hearty appetite for supper and the long, healthy sleep afterwards,—all these remembrances, crowding thick and fast upon us, make us willing to read that chapter once more, and even at its conclusion, to heave a sigh at the thoughts of the brevity of it.

A STRANGE CASE.

How an Enemy was Foiled.

The following graphic statement will be read with intense interest: "I cannot describe the numb, creepy sensation that existed in my arms, hands and legs. I had to rub and beat those parts until they were sore, to overcome in a measure the dead feeling that had taken possession of them. In addition, I had a strange weakness in my back and around my waist, together with an indescribable 'gone' feeling in my stomach. Physicians said it was creeping paralysis, from which, according to their universal conclusion, there is no relief. Once it fastens upon a person, they say, it continues its insidious progress until it reaches a vital point and the sufferer dies. Such was my prospect. I had been doctoring a year and a half steadily, but with no particular benefit, when I saw an advertisement of Dr Miles' Restorative Nervine, procured a bottle and began using it. Marvelous as it may seem, but a few days had passed before every bit of that creepy feeling had left me, and there has not been even a the slightest indication of its return. I now feel as well as I ever did, and have gained ten pounds in weight, though I had run down from 170 to 137. Four others have used Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine on my recomendation, and it has been as satisfactory in their cases as in mine."—James Kane, La Rue, O.

'TIS FAIRIES' NIGHT.

ALL HALLOWEEN, WHEN TO YOUR SIGHT MAY BE, I WEEN,

Revealed Your Future Spouse's Face, In All Its Ugliness and Grace—That's What They Think In the "Auld Countree," but Hardly, I Trow, on This Side the Sea.

A Scotch writer who contributed an article to an American newspaper about Halloween last year declared himself "very much impressed by the almost universal observance of Halloween and its old customs in America." He added that the forms most taken by the observance of the nigh there were, and equally to his interest, rather Scotch-Irish than English. Farther on he says that "Halloween has always been and still is the feast of the year, when gentle and simple meet and enjoy themselves together, irrespective of social barrier and caste, so rigorously observed on other occasions."

This view of Halloween will perhaps be entirely new to a majority of those who read this writing. Halloween is observed in the United States, to be sure, and perhaps in some parts of the country with some of the same superstition that marks its observance among those who dwell on the British isles, but this is rarely the fact among those of the "old time American stock." This is especially true of those descended from the Puritans. Those sturdy old iconoclasts cast out all sorts of belief regarding saints' days and pagan festivals, including even Christmas and the Eastertide, in their prohibition of celebrations that savored of either the Roman church or the Druids. The observance of Halloween is a mixture of both, and I have no doubt that there are many thousands in the United States, some of whom will read these words, who were in as dense ignorance of Halloween in their childhood as was a business man of one of our largest cities with whom I conversed the other day.

"I never heard of Halloween at all when I was a boy," said this man. "I never heard of Easter either until I was 17 or 18. Full knowledge of both did not come to me till I 'went away to school' with money I had earned working in the hayfield and the apple orchard, and then I read their history in the 'Book of Days.' But I knew all about Paas (I used to spell it Poss) and cabbage night. I used to hide eggs in the haymow for days, waiting for the first, and the standing cabbages and the swinging gates of the neighbors used to suffer on the second, I tell you."

Cabbage night! That's the title the American boy applies to Halloween. And a right lusty, sturdy savage the American boy is like to be on that night. It must be confessed that the joys of cabbage night, its breathless exertions and runnings here and there in the darkness, its pulling of bells and knocking at doors, its lifting and lugging of gates, its stretching of ropes across paths to trip the unwary, all seem rather flat and silly to the man whose hair is getting gray and who is beginning to be fat or rheumatic or perhaps both. But they weren't flat and silly some 20 or 30 years ago, were they, old fellow? Do you remember what fun you had stealthily tying two cabbages to Deacon Ellis' front door knob on cabbage night in 1867 or 1868? How you then knocked at the door and dodged behind the big cherry tree in the yard where Tom Waters was hidden before you? How you then saw the young theological student, who was "settin up" with the deacon's pretty niece, when he opened the door? How he was so angry when he saw the joke that he began to say something that sounded very much like a "big, big D?" How you snickered so loud that he heard you, and darting out into the darkness caught you both and dragged you into the parlor, where he stood you, nearly helpless with mortification, before his sweetheart, preached you a little sermon, smiling the while, which sounded very funny to the young lady, but very serious to you? And how at the windup he confessed that he had himself done such things when he was a boy, but thought them rude and suggested that in future you spend Halloween going about restoring unhinged gates to their own and the commission of other similar good deeds?

If that reminiscence be not one of yours, then one somewhat similar probably is unless you were a city boy, as I was not. I suppose there is no doubt that town born lads have quite as much fun in their weak way and manner as country lads, but I must confess I have never been able to understand how.

It is not putting it inaccurately, I imagine, to say that Halloween, observed according to the methods that are time honored across the ocean, is a new institution, comparatively speaking at least, in America. It was brought here by settlers who came latter than the Puritans, by immigrants who came to better their condition and not for liberty of conscience. In some sections where the population is largely made up of this latter element the old English, Scotch and Irish legends undoubtedly obtain, yet it is extremely doubtful if there is one-tenth of the Halloween superstition anywhere in the United States that exists in the mother country unless it is among the negroes of the south, where, since the extreme observances of the occasion resemble those of the "voodoo doctors" so closely, it has been completely assimilated into the system of superstitions held by the children of Africa.

A sort of half belief in Halloween superstition has been widely disseminated by the boarding schools of the land, and it is safe to assume that there is far more of Halloween observance among the children and young folks of the rich and well to do than among those whose parents work for wages throughout the land. It is quite customary nowadays for parents to plan Halloween parties for their children, at which many of the sports of the season are entered into.

Bobbing for apples, throwing apple peelings over one's shoulder to see what initials the peelings will form, pouring melted lead into water for a similar purpose and the like are favorite diversions at these little parties. As diversions they are harmless, but in all seriousness the inculcation of superstitions at Halloween, or any other time, for that matter, should be avoided, for the human creature is desperately inclined to be superstitious, no matter how modern, and there is nothing more torturing in life than to be a victim of some belief in the significance of omens and signs and presentiments, even if the victim knows in his inmost heart that there is nothing at all to justify such belief.

As a study the folklore of Halloween is most interesting. The origin of the observance is unmistakably Druidical, and, although the date was shifted to that of All Souls' night when Christianity usurped heathenism among the Teutons, the Anglo-Saxons and the Celts, there is nothing about its legends and ceremonies that does not savor of the pagan. Pulling the kail (or cabbage) to find if one's spouse to be will be stout or lean is one, and from this no doubt came the hilarious phantasies of the American cabbage night. Hazel nuts and chestnuts play an important part in English Halloween observances. The poet Gray tells of this most delightfully in these lines:

TWO HAZEL NUTS I THREW INTO THE FLAME

Two hazel nuts I threw into the flame,
And to each nut I gave a sweetheart's name.
This with the loudest bounce me sore amazed,
That in a flame of brightest color blazed
As blazes nut so may thy passion grow,
For 'twas thine own that did so brightly glow.

In the old days it was believed that witches did travel abundantly on Halloween. The fairies, too, did then disport themselves most friskily, and spells then worked that worked no other night. The burning of bonfires was general in Wales and Scotland on Halloween, and lads and maybe lasses, too, then went out masked and dressed in garments of quaint design.

There were also many games on Halloween in other times of which nothing is preserved, save in tradition. Some of these games were such as would not be admissible now, for the refinement of those old days was much less than that of today, no matter how they may have excelled the present in other directions. Those games which had for their object the discovery of a future husband's or wife's identity were naturally most popular. Here is a recipe for securing an answer to the question supposed to be most important to every girl. It is from an ancient publication, entitled "The True Fortune Teller:"

"To know whether a woman will have the man she wishes get two lemon peels. Wear them all day, one in each pocket. At night rub the four posts of the bedstead with them. If she is to succeed, the person will appear in her sleep and present her with a couple of lemons. If not, there is no hope."

Here is one from the latitude of Chicago. It is especially adapted to city observance, but it is not warranted Fill your mouth with salt and run around the block, when your true love will of a surety show himself.

Eva Lovett has put this one into rhyme. It is an old favorite with all Halloween devotees:

At midnight lone hempseed is thrown
(The peeping elves can see).
"I sow hempseed, my love, indeed.
Come garner after me!"

AMERICA'S GREATEST MEN AND WOMEN.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

My Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as his natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

HERE ARE the TERMS.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Once a Millionaire, Died a Pauper.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—A. J. Holmes, twenty years ago one of San Francisco's millionaires, died recently at the San Francisco almshouse and narrowly escaped burial in the potters' field. Holmes was the original locater and owner of the North Belle and Holmes mines, near Candelara, Emerald county, Nevada, and for several years one of the leading social and financial lights of San Francisco. He spent money with a lavish hand and it soon went from him.

Carried Off the Safe and Blew It Up.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31.—Two or three negroes robbed a disreputable resort on Pine street. They entered a room where two women were asleep, seized a 400 pound iron safe, which contained diamonds valued at $2,500 and $150 in currency, and carried it down stairs, through the house, and into the coal shed. Here they blew it open, secured the contents and escaped.

The Search for Knowledge.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The annual report of Dr. W. T. Harris, commissioner of education, says that 23 per cent. of the population attend school during some period of the year. The average period of attendance in the year, however, is only eighty-nine days for each pupil.

Plundered by African Pilots.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 31.—The Italian bark Scutola, Captain Starita, from Philadelphia on Sept. 21 for Naples, has been boarded by pirates off Morro Nuevo, Africa, who plundered the vessel and escaped with 1,000 boxes of petroleum.

A Norristown Baby Farm.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 31.—A colored baby farm has been flourishing in the Eighth ward of Norristown for the last twenty-two years, and was known to but few persons living here until Monday, when a colored child, aged 11, parents unknown, died suddenly. The baby farm is conducted by a colored woman, who testified at the coroner's inquest that the child was brought to her from Philadelphia about five months ago.

Denouncing the Sunday Newspaper.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 31.—At its convention here yesterday the Sabbath association passed resolutions opposing the repeal of any of the Sunday laws, and advocating a penalty of $25 for all violations thereof. It also pronounced the Sunday newspaper to be the most insidious of all the enemies of the Sabbath day, and urges the impeachment of all officials who fail to enforce the Sunday laws as they exist.

Chinese Generals Degraded.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 31.—The court before which Generals Yeh and Weh were tried has found the accused guilty of cowardice and neglect of duty in causing the loss of the battle of Ping Yang. The sentence of the court is that both generals be degraded and deprived of their honors.

Turkish Consul General Striken.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Xnephon Baltazzi, consul general of Turkey, is lying seriously ill at his home from a paralytic stroke, which seized him while on his way home from his office last evening.

IN THE NAME OF RELIGION.

Performances of a Gang of Free Lovers on Chincoteague Island.

There is a gang of free lovers on Chincoteague island that has greatly demoralized the people and caused no end of trouble. One man, Thomas Bowden, has recently been killed, and more trouble is expected. Joe Lynch is the leader of the gang, and many of the ignorant people have become his followers. It is said that Lynch obtained permission from the authorities of Accomac county to perform marriage and other ceremonies usually pertaining to a minister of the gospel, and in a short time he promulgated doctrines that have led to much trouble.

One of these doctrines—and the one productive of the most trouble—is that each member of the band is to select a "watchman," the man to choose a woman, and vice versa. The couples meet alone together to study Scripture and "meditate." As these "meditations" frequently last nearly all night, and the "wives" seldom being man and wife, there is considerable objection to the "meditating," especially when a "sanctified" wife of an "unsanctified" man meditates until 2 or 3 a. m. with one of the brethren. Nor do the unsanctified wives feel a sufficient confidence in their "sanctified" husbands to sit contentedly at home knowing that they are meditating and talking Scripture with another woman who is perhaps younger and prettier. Lynch has given it out that all persons who are married according to legal form or by an "unsanctified" minister are in the eyes of God guilty of breaking the seventh commandment and that the children of such unions are illegitimate. These are a few of the teachings of this fanatic, all of them being on a par with the instances given.

The lamentable feature of the case is that Lynch's followers believe him and are energetic in making proselytes. A branch "church" was started at Williamsville, Del., and quite a number have embraced the "sanctified" idea. A few believers also live at Box Iron, in this county, a small hamlet near the Sinepuxent bay and near Chincoteague. An astonishing feature about these people is the readiness with which they quote Scripture and point out how sinful every one except the "sanctified" are. To do this they display much skill in taking scraps of the truth and severing them from the context to excuse the excesses committed by themselves. The citizens of Chincoteague have got a white elephant on their hands that they would like very much to be rid of, and this desire has only been strengthened by the killing of Bowden.—Richmond State.

TELLING THE TRUTH

A Well-known Business Man Testifies for Munyon.

W. D. Lovell, the well known real estate broker, of 42 N. Alexander street, Rochester, N. Y., says: "my wife was attacked with severe muscular rheumatism, and was finally compelled to take to her bed. I secured a bottle of Munyon's Rheumatism Cure, and after taking six doses she was able to rise and dress herself unassisted. I have also been relieved of sharp shooting pains after taking a few doses. I considered the cure a marvelous one.

Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to cure rheumatism in any part of body. Acute or muscular rheumatism can be cured in from one to five days. It speedily cures shooting pains, sciatica, lumbago and all rheumatic pains in the back, hips and loins. It seldom fails to give relief after one or two doses, and almost invariably cures before one bottle has been used.

Munyon's Stomach and Dyspepsia cure is guaranteed to cure all forms of stomach troubles and indigestion.

Munyon's Homœopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for n early every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

RACES AT THE DRIVING PARK

Flora J. and Fred Winners in the 2:40 and 2:28 Classes--The Gentlemen's Road Race Not Finished.

The gentlemen's road race was left unfinished, yesterday afternoon, darkness having put an end to an excellent afternoon's sport.

Flora J. won the third heat and the race in the 2 40 class with the greatest of ease. B. B. Williams's big sorrel gelding, Frank, took second money.

Five heats were required to decide the 2:28 trot, the battle for supremacy being between J. J. Wickham's Fred, driven by "Billy" Wood, of Chester, and Chas. Casterline's "Dutchy," driven by "Deck" Goble, of Deckertown.

Fred took the first heat, but in the opinion of the judges Dutchy should have made a better showing, and Goble was called to the stand and questioned. Dutchy then took the second and third heats very handily.

In the fourth heat, Fred had a commanding lead in the stretch, and looked an easy winner. He swerved badly, however, and cut directly in front of Dutchy, who had the pole. He was far enough ahead, so that he did not interfere with the horse and quickly resumed his position. There was a long discussion between the judges, who finally decided to give the heat to Fred.

This decision, of course, necessitated another heat, which was won by Fred. The two horses trotted as a team for half a mile, when Fred forged ahead and won pulled up.

Wood was almost caught napping at the wire by Prince Clark, who finished very fast, and in the gathering darkness almost looked like the winner of the heat.

There was considerable disappointment among the talent over Nora L.'s poor showing She was driven by Frank Weiant for three heats and then the judges turned the mare over to "Tom" Bradley, of Goshen, but he was unable to do anything with her.

The gentlemen's road race was left unfinished. Two heats were trotted, one of which was won by Altadena, the other by Miss Knox. The latter had her field distanced, but came in on a walk to save her mark.

The summary.

Accident on the Monticello Railroad.

The train on the Monticello road attempted to make a flying switch at Buckert's coal pockets, Port Jervis, yesterday, but the cars followed the engine so closely that the switch could not be turned and the cars dashed into the engine forcing it through the door of the coal house The force of the collision was so great that the rear end of the combination car and the front end of the passenger car were smashed in,

Shipping Celery to New York.

Considerable quantities of fine celery are now being shipped from the Orange county celery gardens, near Eight and-a Half station to New York city. A large crop was raised on the gardens, and the celery is of unusually fine quality, rivaling that from the famous celery fields at Kalamazoo, Mich.

HYMENEAL.

Wells Shimer.

Miss Flora A. Shimer and Mr. George M. Wells, of Port Jervis, both of whom are well known in Middletown, were married in the Reformed Church, Port Jervis, at 7 o'clock, last evening, in the presence of a large company.

The bridesmaids were Misses Visnie Rose and Antionette Ball, of Honesdale, Pa., and Misses Isadore Wells, a sister of the groom, Gertrude Fowler, Nellie Farnum and Annie Sharpe, of Port Jervis. They wore uniform gowns of white organdie over yellow silk, trimmed with yellow satin ribbon and in their hair were rosettes of yellow chiffon, fastened with aigrettes. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The maid of honor was Miss Anna Wells, the youngest sister of the groom, who was charmingly costumed in a garment of crepe de chene. trimmed with yellow satin ribbons. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

The graceful bride looked beautiful in her costume of ivory white duchess satin made en train, and trimmed with white duchess lace. She wore a white tulle veil, fastened with white aigrettes and her engagement ring, and carried a bridal bouquet of white tea roses and maiden hair fern.

After the wedding there was a reception at the home of the brides's mother, which was attended by about 150 of the more intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wells.

A large number of guests were present from out of town, among them Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Townsend, of Newburgh; Misses Anna May Bull and Eleanore B Royce and Dr. Hardenberg, of this city, and Misses Bessie and Harriet Himes, of Troy, N. Y.

"KILLARNEY AND THE RHINE"

Words of Praise for This Evening's Casino Attraction

"Killarney and the Rhine" will be seen at the Casino theatre, this evening, Oct. 31st. The following is the opinion of the Wilming on Republican:

"Killarney and the Rhine" was presented at the Academy of Music for the first time in this city, by J. E. Toole and a strong supporting company to a highly pleased audience. It has all the requisites for a prosperous career, being a strong melodrama, fit to stand upon its own merits, and has the brightness of a musical comedy. The entire company is evenly balanced and above the average. Mr. Toole is a clever German dialect comedian, and does some clever acting and introduced catchy songs and dances. He was ably supported by Miss Gussie Gardner, as a bonny Irish girl, who captivated her audience with both artistic acting and Irish wit. She has a sweet, cultivated voice, something seldom heard in an Irish drama. The scenery was excellent.

Democratic Meeting at Unionville.

A Democratic meeting will be held in City Hall, Unionville, Saturday evening, Nov. 3d. It will be addressed by William F. O'Neill, Esq., of Middletown. Turn out and hear this eloquent advocate of the cause of Democracy. Seats reserved for ladies. Everybody welcome.

Democratic Meeting at Westtown.

William H. Wyker, Esq., of Goshen, will speak for Hill and the whole Democratic ticket at the Academy building, Westtown, Friday evening. Mr. Wyker always make a good speech. Don't fail to hear him.

Population of the State Hospital.

WHY Do you spend your money with a man who carries it to New York? Why don't you help along a man who spends his money in your city? Why don't you take your German lessons from a German Doctor who will teach you the best German you ever heard I don't stop after having taught three months by going away to New York But children teaching, my specialty, will not be successful, except it is steady. If you like to hear your children talking and writing German very soon, send them to my German school, beginning Nov 3d, two times a week Saturday, 2 to 3; Wednesday 5 to 6 You pay only $1 per month Please apply at my residence, 54 Sprague avenue School rooms in my house

J. G. HARDING'S,
25 West Main street,
Middletown, N. Y.

THE REASON

Why we make up clothing to order at less money than any other tailor is:

1st—We buy our cloth direct from the commission houses in full pieces. All other tailors have to buy from the jobber, and thus pay a good profit to the jobber.

2d—We do all our own cutting, having no expense for a cutter, etc., etc.

3d—We have no expense to do our tailoring business, doing it in connection with our ready-made clothing business. Suits, Overcoats and Ulsters to order from $16.50. We guarantee a fit or we do not ask you to take the clothing.
